In The Name of Allah,
Most Gracious,
Most Merciful

This book has been commissioned by the curriculum department of the Islamic Education and Studies Directorate in the preparatory schools of the Sunni Endowment, as part of a comprehensive plan to update educational and pedagogical curricula to keep up with scientific and technological developments around the world. It also aims to complete the English language curriculum for the first grade.

Because the English language heavily relies on pronunciation, reading, comprehension, writing, and other educational skills, this book is designed to meet the requirements of the pedagogical curriculum. With the help of Allah, we present this book, which contains 8 units.

The book includes a review unit in the fourth and eighth chapters, which aligns with the annual plan. We do not claim perfection in presenting this information, but it is our effort to offer information in a way that promotes healthy scientific thinking. We hope that this information will be useful in qualifying students in Islamic education and studies schools. To improve the level and quality of the book, we welcome any useful suggestions from our fellow teachers, and we will be happy to receive their feedback and opinions on the contents of the book during their teaching of the subject. We ask Allah to make this book a source of beneficial knowledge.

My friend, Imad, has always been fat, but things got so bad recently that he decided to go on a diet. He began his diet a week ago. First of all, he wrote out a long list of all the foods which were forbidden. The list included most of the things Imad loved: butter, potatoes, rice, milk, chocolates, and sweets.

Yesterday I visited him. I rang the bell and was surprised to see that he was still as fat as ever. He led me into his room and hurriedly hid a large parcel under his desk. When I asked him what he was doing, he smiled and then put the parcel on the desk. He explained that his diet was so strict that he had to reward himself occasionally. Then he showed me the contents of the parcel. It contained five large bars of chocolates and three bags of sweets.

Nasreddin and the Pot

One day Nasreddin borrowed a pot from his neighbor Ali. The next day he brought it back with another little pot inside. "That's not mine," said Ali. "Yes, it is," said Nasreddin. "While your pot was staying with me, it had a baby."

Sometime later Nasreddin asked Ali to lend him a pot again. Ali agreed, hoping that he would once again receive two pots in return. However, days passed and Nasreddin had still not returned the pot. Finally, Ali lost patience and went to demand his property.

"I am sorry," said Nasreddin. "I can't give you back your pot, since it has died." "Died!" screamed Ali, "How can a pot die?" "Well," said Nasreddin, "You believed me when I told you that your pot had had a baby."

اختبار رخصة قيادة Driving Test

I was being tested for a driving license for the third time. I had been asked to drive in heavy traffic and I had done so successfully. I began to acquire confidence and the examiner seemed to have been pleased with my performance, for he smiled and said, "Just one more thing, Mr. Ali. Let us suppose that a child suddenly crosses the road in front of you. As soon as I tap on the window, I want you to stop the car immediately".

I continued driving and after some time, the examiner tapped loudly. Though I heard the sound clearly, it took me a long time to react. I suddenly pressed hard on the brake pedal and we were both thrown forward. The examiner looked at me sadly and said: "Mr. Ali, you have just killed that child".

The Brave Woman المرأة الشجاعة

Arab women used to go with the Arab armies. They usually cooked food for the soldiers and looked after the injured. Dirar's sister, Khawla, was with her brother in the army.

In one great battle, Dirar fought his way deep into the enemy lines. He was surrounded by many enemy soldiers. He fought very well but soon later he became their prisoner. Khawla saw her brother and was angry. She dressed in a soldier's clothes and covered her face. Then she rode a horse and went to free her brother. She fought until the enemy was defeated. But she couldn't save her brother.

Khawla was taken to Khalid. He said that she was very brave. He allowed some soldiers to go with her. They followed the enemy soldiers. After a hard fight, Khawla and her soldiers defeated the enemy. They saved Dirar and returned with happy hearts.
